

PRESS RELEASE - 15th Oct. 2010

Ramblers Post Equinox Skydiving & Music Festival

15 - 23rd October 2010, at Ramblers Toogoolawah Drop Zone

EQUINOX ROCKS 2010

Due to the unseasonal, continuous bad weather, Ramblers have been forced to cancel the Equinox Rocks Music Festival, which was planned for tomorrow, Saturday the 16th October 2010. The outdoor venue at the Skydive Ramblers drop zone in Toogoolawah is waterlogged and all car parks are unusable. Roads towards Toogoolawah were cut during the last week and the possibility of more rain could cause further closures.

The Equinox Rocks Concert has been postponed until early next year, approximately in April 2011. Date is to be advised. Ramblers apologises for the disappointment and any inconveniences caused, however these circumstances are beyond our control.

The Equinox Boogie Skydiving Festival however, that runs from today, Friday the 15th until next Saturday, the 23rd of October, is still going ahead. Skydivers are arriving from all over Australia and the world to share their passion.

Spectators are welcome to come and check out the action, entry is free!
